How the Post Regards It.

The following is from the Post: The member of the Nevada Legislature who introduced the Anti-treating law is the first man to be arrested for breaking it. He was distinguished, also, among his brother legislators as being able to drink more whisky than any of them without staggering under the load. The introduction of his celebrated bill was intended as an aid to a desperate attempt at personal reform. The Legislature, being in a humorous mood, adopted the measure, and so sent abroad a totally erroneous notion of the state of the public mind with reference to the temperance question. A man who does not drink would attract as much curious attention in Nevada as would be given one who should promenade Kearny St. without his hat.

J. O. Cosgrove who used to be connected with the Evening Chronicle, has been appointed Court reporter of San Joaquin county at a salary of $225 a month.

Mrs. Daugherty rises to remark that every piece of goods now in her establishment is new. The appearance of her show window certainly bears out this statement.

For Banquets Dinners and Parties use Eclipse Extra Dry, it is equal to any and superior to most imported brands, and the only natural California champagne in the market.

Vast piles of money in loose sacks are now lying about the Mint during the count, and extra Democratic guards have been put on to see that the Republican guards have no tar on their heels.

The fight at Chalchupa was one of the bloodiest on record. The soldiers on both sides threw away their guns and came together hand to hand with short swords. This sort of a riot was kept up ten hours.

AM KEE ON THE WAR.

An Intelligent Chinaman Expresses his Opinion.

Most Carson people will recollect Dr. Ah Kee, a wealthy and educated Chinaman, who some years ago practiced medicine in this city, and sent his children to the public schools. He is now a traveling agent for a Chinese firm in San Francisco, and yesterday he passed up on the train. During a stroll along the platform he was interviewed and gave the following as his views on the recent defeat of the French, and what the result of the war would be:

"We can whip the French because we can outnumber them. Nobody outside of China realizes how dense our population is. We are so over populated that a war is a blessing, and the Chinese Government will enter into a war on a very slim pretext, because it affords a chance to weed out human beings. We seldom go outside our boundaries to fight, but anybody who wants to invade China is welcome. Of course, the French are a great and brave nation, but what does that amount to against such numbers as we can throw into the field at a week's notice. Suppose you kill ten thousand, it is just as if you put your hand down and crushed a lot of flies, does it seem to make the flies any less. Of course not, France puts ten thousand men in the field, we put in a hundred thousand. France gets excited, feeling the national honor is at stake, and puts in a million, all well and good, in fact so much the better, we put in ten million. They keep killing us and more men keep coming. You cannot exhaust our resources. We have men, the first requisite, munitions of war, the next, and then money."

Here the doctor became quite excited and brought the palm of his uplifted hand down on the other to emphasize his words.

"Money that would stagger a nation as poor as France. They have a million, good, we have a hundred million for each of theirs. Our Navy has no peer in the world," and then he added with a laugh, "better than America's, with your old tubs. We have the best Krupp guns, and as for gunpowder, we invented it centuries ago. Let the French come and no Frenchman who sets foot on Chinese soil will ever go back home to tell his countrymen of it. They will only leave their bones there, and these we will grind up to fertilize our fields, and make the crops better. You can put all this in your paper if you want to. Any Chinaman will tell you the same. It is good for all nations that China prefers to stay at home. We can cover the world with Chinaman and not miss them in China."

A Jubilee at Belleville.

There was a general demonstration at Belleville on Wednesday over the raising of wages of the men employed in the mills. The old standard of rates has been re-established, and brought out a universal manifestation of joy amid the blazing of bonfires and a salute of 100 guns. The upper mill will start on full time on the first of next month, and everything points to the still greater area of prosperity in not only that but in this region. The restoration of the old rate of wages in the mills, will also silence the hint of a reduction of that of the mines, and all is due to the presence of Alvinza Hayward, one of the principal owners in the Holmes company. — Candelaria True Fissure.

Death of Mrs. Hagerman.

Mrs. J. C. Hagerman died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. The deceased was born in Kanawha Salines, now West Virginia, on December 22, 1841; was married in 1861, and came with her family to Reno in its early days. Freddy is her only surviving child, she having buried two others here. Mrs. Hagerman has been a great sufferer for many years, but bore her burden uncomplainingly, having received the best of care from her devoted husband. May she have the sweetest of rest in the other world.—Reno Journal.

A Mother's Terrible Crime.

ALEXANDER, N. Y., April 4.—Before retiring last night Mrs. Scott Spring, residing near this place, had a trifling dispute with her husband. He was working near the house this morning when he saw smoke coming out of the open windows, and rushing home, a terrible sight met his gaze. His two small children were on the floor, literally burning to death. In a corner of the room lay his wife with her throat cut from ear to ear, and beside her lay the razor with which she had inflicted the gash. Scott made an attempt to put out the fire, but soon discovered that the children's clothing had been saturated with kerosene. By the time he had smothered the flames with the bed clothing, both had burned to death. His wife was alive when he entered the room, but died within a few minutes from loss of blood. Mrs. Spring had never been considered out of her mind, and was a good mother. What caused her sudden insanity is not understood.

New York Chinese Celebrating the French Defeat.

NEW YORK, April 4.—A reporter called last evening upon Wong He Chong, a leading Chinese importer of New York and the only Mongolian millionaire this side of the Rocky Mountains. Wong was found at No. 3 Mott street, surrounded by his friends, all of whom were celebrating the victory at Langson. In response to the reporter's questions, the merchant said: "This victory is nothing more than we have long expected. The trouble is that the French authorities, in order not to lose prestige in the eyes of other nations, have systematically lied in regard to their Tonquin campaign. The victories they have reported have invariably been little skirmishes in which a corporal's guard on either side has been magnified into an army. On the other hand, their defeats have always been returned as skirmishes."

Fish Commissioner, Ahey!

Last year thousands of young and full-grown bass were permitted to be destroyed by the farmers in Washoe Valley. It was unintentional on the part of the farmers. They opened the flood gates at the north end of the lake for the purpose of irrigating their fields, and there being no screens across the outlets the fish passed through and out on the meadows, where they perished by the millions. It is the duty of the Fish Commissioner to see that screens are properly placed to keep the fish in the lake. The State appropriates money for such purpose, that is, the proper protection of its fish, and the Commissioner should at once take steps to have screens so placed at the different outlets of Washoe Lake that the fish therein will be protected. Now is the time; two weeks hence and it may be too late.

The Ozarks.

The Ozark Base Ball Club organized last night with the following players:

- A. L. Newnam, 1st base.
- G. H. Wheeler, 2nd base.
- G. D. Fryer, 3d base.
- G. Hawthorne, short stop.
- F. P. Curtis, right field.
- H. David, center field.
- J. P. Parkinson, left field.

A match game will be played today between the Ozarks and Zephyrs. All are invited.

The State Land Office.

The State Land Office did a rushing business during the month of March. The amount of land selected was as follows:

Carson Land District 5,160 acres, Eureka Land District 8,269 acres. Old lands forfeited and resold, 2,171 acres, making a total sold of 15,600 acres. The amount of cash received on these sales and payments on contracts during the month was $16,239.13. Of this amount $3597.66 was interest received on deferred payments on contracts.

A Novelty in Building.

Mr. Curtis, the Reno architect, is in the city with his plans for the State Printing Office. The plans embrace a novelty in building. The plan contemplates an edifice on wheels, set to the gauge of the V. & T. so that as soon as the Legislature passes the required bill, the building can be put on the track and scooted down to Reno in a couple of hours, intact.
